June 12 - June 26, 2016

Faculty

Richard Lux, Ph.D., Holocaust Study Institute coordinator and tour leader, Professor Emeritus of Scripture studies, is the founding director of the Lux Center for Catholic-Jewish Studies at Sacred Heart Seminary and School of Theology and has dedicated his 37-year career to Catholic-Jewish Relations. His tireless teaching, public lectures, travel, myriad publications and energetic personal outreach have brought rich perspectives on Judaism and Israel to thousands of students, researchers, religious leaders and laity.

Dr. Shay Pilnik, Ph.D., co-director of the Holocaust Study Institute is Executive Director of the Nathan and Esther Pelz Holocaust Education Resource Center in Milwaukee (HERC). An Israeli graduate of Hebrew University of Jerusalem he earned his MA in Jewish Studies from McGill University in Montreal and Ph.D. from the Jewish Theological Seminary in Modern Jewish Studies. He has directed HERC since summer, 2014.

Class Sessions:

Tuesday evenings 6:30 – 8:30 p.m.

Jan. 19 through May 3

(No classes on Mar. 22, Apr. 26)

Location:

Sacred Heart Seminary and School of Theology
7335 S. Highway 100 (US-45), Franklin, Wis.

Course fee: $145.00

Partial scholarships available for educators, clergy and students. For information contact HERC Coordinator Brittany R. Hager McNeely at BrittanyH@MilwaukeeJewish.org, or 414-963-2710.

The course will help students to:

- Identify the historical and theological underpinnings of anti-Semitism that influenced Nazi ideology and led to the Holocaust
- Understand the growth of anti-Judaism from early Christianity to its development as the seed bed of a virulent anti-Semitism in the 19th Century and its manifestation in Nazi ideology and practice.
- Examine Jewish life in Europe before the Holocaust, the Nazi rise to power and the beginning phases of the war against the Jews.
- Explore the development of the Final Solution and its implementation.
- Consider perspectives of resistance and rescue.
- Discuss the challenges of post-Holocaust theology and examine a variety of Holocaust education strategies.
